TUCSON, Az. – Santa Rita Landscaping, founded in 1985 by brothers Brian and Garrett Ham, is merging with Southwest Envirosapes, Inc, founded in 1992 by Richard Spross.

Santa Rita provides custom residential landscape design and installation, landscaping and grading services for home builders, and commercial landscaping and maintenance. Santa Rita has won numerous awards and recognitions including 18 Arizona Landscape Contractors Installation Awards.

Southwest Envirosapes, Inc. is one of Tucson's leading providers of landscaping services for the commercial and public sectors, including such recently completed jobs as the new Uni-Source Tower and the I-10 corridor from Prince to 29th street.

According to Santa Rita CEO Brian Ham, "This merger will help fulfill the vision of all three founders to serve the Tucson market as its preeminent provider of landscape services and provide a total landscape solution to any and all sectors of the Southern Arizona Market," says Santa Rita CEO Ham.

"For years we have been a market leader in commercial and public sector landscaping. With this merger we are able to offer a complete, quality landscape solution to customers across all markets," adds Spross of Southwest Envirosapes.

The merged companies will operate as Santa Rita Landscaping, Inc.
